Welcome to the website of CCA Haryana. We have witnessed a revolution in the field of telecommunication in the last two decades. It has touched our lives in such a way that it is difficult to live without telecom services. But even now people in rural and remote areas do not have fair access to various types of audio, video, data transmission services.

Telecommunication has been recognized as an integral part of the infrastructure all over the world. India is no exception. Government of India has launched specific schemes for the benefit of its citizens especially those living in rural and remote areas. In this direction, Universal Services Obligation Fund has been providing necessary financial subsidy support to service providers. We intend to bridge the digital divide between urban and rural areas.

An effort has been made to present all the required information at this website in a concise and meaningful manner but omissions and mistakes cannot be ruled out. Your valuable suggestions are welcome to further improve the services. Welcome once again.
